Southern Hearth and Patio

Providing The Highest Quality American-Made Fireplaces and Grills

Over the last 8 years, Southern Hearth and Patio has become the “go to” place in Chattanooga for all things fire, from fireplaces and gas logs on the inside, to outdoor kitchens, BBQ grills and now fireplaces on the outside.

A five time winner of Casual Magazine’s Top 100 stores in America, Southern Hearth and Patio specializes in, well, casual living.

With more than 14 years in the grill and fireplace business, Clay Dennis, owner of Southern Hearth and Patio, has been involved in this industry on both a regional and national level.

“I’ve become more involved in supporting and participating in national training programs like NFI (National Fireplace Institute) Certification programs and Hearth Masters.” says Clay. He has also been called upon by several gas log manufacturers like R. H. Peterson and Heatmaster to design new and exciting logs that push the envelope in realism and detail.

Now, with the popularity of the outdoor room, Southern Hearth and Patio offers everything for your outdoor entertaining area, right down to the kitchen sink! With outdoor refrigerators, smokers, gas/charcoal/and electric BBQ grills, umbrellas, and furniture, the concepts of an outdoor room can be quickly realized.

More importantly, Southern Hearth and Patio’s inventory is dominated by American-made products.

“Our entire lineup of grills is strictly American made. Even our choice of charcoal cookers, smokers, fireplaces, and gas logs are made in the U.S. as well. It seems crazy to me that with pet food from China being contaminated, toys being painted with lead, and some medications being tainted, that we as Americans continue to buy products from China, simply because they are cheaper. I refuse to apologize any more that American-made products are more expensive just because they are made well.” says Clay.

“Our manufactures are held to quality standards from the EPA, OSHA, and other workforce related entities, so the expenses are higher, but so is the quality. Americans are paid more than 50 cents per day and are held to age standards with the Child Labor Laws. I struggle to understand why many Americans buy these inferior products, much less, hearth and patio products that produce fire, without consideration of how or where it is made. One of the things we do here at Southern Hearth is to help our customers make informed decisions about the products they are buying.”

“We offer grills from $589 and up, and outdoor kitchens from $1999 and up. We can show you how to turn a standard deck or patio into a real outdoor room, a place to really LIVE outdoors and enjoy the areas you work all week to pay for and really don’t use now.” Southern Hearth and Patio’s outdoor grilling classes begin their 3rd season in April.
